Retaining top talent is more important than ever. It can easily cost 6-7 times more to replace a physician than to keep one. Today's retention model has reached a new level of sophistication which demands attention to every aspect of the business of delivering healthcare services. Are you ready? Do you have the tools in place to help you forge relationships that, in turn, allow your organization to increase market share?

The most comprehensive software available today for physician retention professionals, KiRetention allows you to track and report on every initiative key to growing and securing your medical staff. With this technology at your fingertips, you can see at a glance what is working. You will feel as if you have an entire team behind you— accessible anywhere, 24/7. So keep your docs happy.
